

Lifelong Housing Interview on KPSQ Radio, Fayetteville

Beth Barham Lifelong Housing Interview 9 September 2017

The above interview was recorded for KPSQ Public Square Community Radio in Fayetteville (www.kpsq.org) for the program, Fayetteville Folkus, and aired on September 23, 2017.

About the show: Fayetteville Folkus is hosted by Jim Lukens each Saturday morning from 8:00am – 9:00am. Each week Jim shares the studio with a special guest to focus on community groups, events, leaders, services, topics and talents in this place we call home. Using interviews, essays and editorials, this show gives a voice to our community members, providing information, entertainment – and yes – inspiration, too. Tune in to KPSQ at 97.3 FM in Fayetteville. All show archives can be heard at this website: <http://www.kpsq.org/show-archives/>.

In this clip, Beth Barham is interviewed about the ongoing effort for Lifelong Housing in Fayetteville. She shares some of the background of the initiative, along with news about an AARP grant to promote the effort, and upcoming events.

Please note that the event mentioned for October 15th, 2017, is no longer open to the public, due to the need to control conditions for making a brief film about the event (30 minutes). When this film is released, it will be available here on the League website for viewing.
